ANTIOCH HIGH SCHOOL GIVEN HIGH RATING IN ACHIEVEMENT TESTS

This year, for the first time, the entire student body of Antioch High school has taken the famous University of Iowa achievement tests to determine the progress of the students, and the school as a whole.

Some outstanding work has been discovered by the tests. The World and European history classes (taught by R. H. Childers) were first on the list, with literature, Latin, and American history coming in second, third and fourth. Not only did the World history classes win first in the local high school, but they won first in competition with eighty-two other schools of its class and third in competition with two hundred and fifty-eight schools of the larger class. This achievement places Antioch High school near the top of the list of all high schools.

Modern methods of teaching history brought to the local school by Coach Childers produced almost immediate results as reflected in increased ratings as well as greater interest in this important subject. Interesting assignments, sensible as to length, also had pronounced effect in converting what is usually considered among students as a "dry" subject, into a most fascinating course of study.

The test results show a decidedly upward trend in the scholastic attainment of the school. The learning curve of the chart indicates a rapid rise from the sophomore group through the Senior year.

These tests are stimulating to pupils and teachers and are said to have raised the scholastic attitude in general.

"Sports Help Efficiency"- Ralph Jones

Physical Fitness Aids Well-Rounded Life, Asserts Noted Coach

The importance of physical fitness and its relation to well-rounded useful living was stressed by Coach Ralph Jones of Lake Forest college, before a group of 120 banqueters gathered in the Antioch High school cafeteria Tuesday night to witness the annual awarding of letters to Sequoit athletes.

"It's foolish to develop the mind and neglect the body in which it lives," Coach Jones said. He pointed out that competitive sports prepare the student to "take it" and the hard knocks in later years, without whimpering. Athletics instills habits of correct living and aids the individual in making correct estimates for essentials and non-essentials, as well as the important factor of time management.

Approves "Working" Students

Jones said he has no sympathy for the student who is working his way through school—that student is fortunate indeed, for he is doing the very thing he should do, and is to be envied.

Coach Jones began his work of training athletes over forty years ago, and he has been a well known figure in many important schools and universities (continued on page 8)

Given Legion Awards

Kathleen Fields and Sammy Klass, winners of the American Legion awards for Antioch Grade school this year, received their awards at this time from Otto S. Klass, Americanization officer of Antioch Post No. 748.

During the year the Antioch post, of which Clarence J. White is the present commander, sponsors a series of five talks at the school. The subjects, and the speakers by whom they were given, were "Honor," discussed by J. O. Austin, principal of Antioch High school; "Courage," by R. H. Childers, coach at the high school; "Service," by S. E. Pollock; "Leadership," by Scout Executive Dahm of Libertyville, and "Scholarship," by Elmo Edwards, instructor at Antioch High school. At the end of the year members of the eighth grade and the teachers of all grades at the school are asked to vote for the eighth grade boy and girl who in their opinion excel in the qualities discussed in the talks.

The awards consist of a medal for the outstanding boy and a pin for the girl. Both also receive certificates and plaques.

Concerning National Defense

Security for this country is a national MUST. On that subject, all real Americans are agreed, and only a small group of determined "fifth columnists" will be found standing in the way and trying to throw sand in the gears.

With general acceptance of the need for sound national defense, attention can well be concentrated on the best methods by which this can be achieved. It is only natural, then, that all eyes should be turned expectantly towards industry.

We have the greatest industrial nation in the world, and all other countries have paid us the sincere flattery of copying our methods and our processes. This should give us confidence for the job ahead.

But there is another point, a very important one. Quietly around Washington, many of those in key places are saying that now that industry has the heavy job ahead of forging national security, some of the barriers and hindrances put in its way by government must be removed or modified. And any observer naturally inquires: "If that is the case, why wasn't it also important in peacetime to see that this situation was cleared up? Didn't it get in the way of national recovery, just as it now is getting in the way of national defense?"

It would be hard to find an answer to this question.

But industry, for one, isn't likely to waste its breath on useless incriminations at a time like this. America can well feel proud that it has an industrial machine, the greatest in the world, to which it can turn confident that, when there is a real job to do and a fair opportunity to do it, it will turn out to be a JOB WELL DONE!

The Old Philosopher Speaks Up

Americans have the opportunity of picking up good ideas, sound arguments, or useful information from a great many sources. We read more newspapers, and they provide us with more and better information. With over 40 million radios in our homes and cars, a turn of the dial brings us thought-provoking ideas from still another source.

These thoughts are occasioned after listening to the "Old Philosopher" on a nationally known radio program recently. The old fellow advanced a point concerning the much-bruited subject of machines, industry, and unemployment that is worth recording. Here's what he has to say:

"Maybe I'm all wrong. But it seems like all this talk about business bein' to blame for unemployment might be barkin' up the wrong tree. There's a gas station on almost every corner o' the old home town today, and I can only remember one blacksmith shop when I was a boy. Business has done pretty well!"

It's only an example, of course, brought up out of one man's experience. But it's pretty typical of the whole course of machine progress, wherein there is sometimes temporary displacement but where in the end many other jobs are created than those that are rendered obsolete.

The Old Philosopher really said something that will bear plenty of repeating!

THE "WISE" MONEY is buying Ford this Year!

And Here's Why:

Wise money likes room, and Ford has the most rear seat knee-room at its price, more inside length than cars far higher in price! Wise money likes performance, and picks the only low-price "8"! But wise money likes economy, too, and Ford gave most miles per gallon of all standard-equipped cars at its price in the famous Gilmore-Yosemite economy test! Wise money likes a fine car ride, and knows that the big, steady, quiet 1940 Ford has the ride of the year! Wise money likes value, so it knows that Ford has the biggest hydraulic brakes, the only semi-centrifugal clutch giving lower pedal pressure at shifting speeds, and the only hardened valve seat inserts for all engine valves among cars at its price. Wise money likes up-to-the-minute "features," and this Ford has them all! ... But why not come in and put your own money "wise" to everything this big and brilliant Ford car gives you!

TESTING CONDUCT BY ITS USEFULNESS (A Principle of Temperate Living)

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 15:1-6; Matthew 5:13-16; 7:16-20; 1 Corinthians 10:6, 7.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall know them by their fruits.—Matthew 7:16.

Sound principles are foundational to right living. Right living is temperate living. The first temperance lesson for the year emphasized the sacredness of life. This lesson, which is our second one on that subject, properly stresses the importance of testing conduct by its true usefulness.

The emphasis of modern thinking is upon learning, upon the brilliance of scientific achievement, with little or no concern about personal character. Christianity and the Bible go to the root of that matter, stressing the need of stalwart moral and spiritual character, without which other attainments are lacking in real value and meaning. Unless what a man accomplishes is the expression of the greatness of his character, it is transient and often detrimental in its effect on society.

Tested by its results, the liquor traffic stands conclusively and completely condemned. Even its own frantic efforts to clean up and be more presentable indicates that fact. McAlpine made a rather acute comment when he said,

"IF I WERE A LIAR... a food, whisky as the promoter of the abundant life, and cocktails as the badge of social correctness. They say that if you repeat any thing times enough, people will believe it."

The Scripture portions before us present five inconsistencies, five instances where fact denies a false profession.

I. Wood Without Strength. (Ezek. 15:1-6).

The branch of a vine is at its best too crooked and pliable to be very useful, but here we have a piece of vine which has been charred in the fire until it is so useless that it can only be burned up. This is the picture of a life, possibly somewhat limited in its abilities and gifts, but nevertheless valuable, but made utterly useless by careless or dissolute living. How tragic!

II. Salt Without Savor (Matt. 5:13).

True salt is penetrating, antiseptic and purifying, but savorless salt is good for nothing but to make a road for the feet of men. "Ye are the salt of the earth." Christians, if they have the true savor in their lives, will count, by their very spiritual pugnancy, against sin and corruption in their communities.

III. Light Without Illumination (Matt. 5:14).

A light is intended to give illumination to all around about it. It always does that thing unless someone hides it under a cover, and then it becomes not only useless, but dangerous. A life lighted by faith in Christ will shine to the very ends of the earth and, as a missionary once said, "The light that shines farthest shines brightest at home." We are the light of the world, but if we cover our light we deny the very essence of our nature. Here is no thought of proud or selfish display. Light does not shout about itself, it just shines—but it really does shine.

IV. Trees Without Fruit (Matt. 7:16-20).

Every plant brings forth fruit after its own nature. We do not expect figs from thistles, but we do expect figs on the fig tree. The countryside bears no more desolate figure than a blasted, fruitless fruit tree. Quickly the owner cuts it down and terminates its shame and uselessness by burning it. What about men and women? God has made them in His own image and likeness. He has given them intelligence and personal ability. He has a right to expect the fruit of a useful life from every one, and particularly from the Christian, who is "a good tree."

V. Life Without a Purpose (1 Cor. 10:6, 7).

Light and salt are inanimate objects. Trees and vines with their wood and fruit are alive, but they are without intelligence and morality. Man, however, as we have already suggested, is the moral and intelligent crown of God's creation, made in His own image and likeness. If they who know better, live lives of careless indifference, yea of outright wickedness, how shall they escape the judgment of God in the day when they shall stand before Him to give an account of the manner in which they have used this precious gift of life?

The Beginning of Wisdom

He sent redemption unto his people; he hath commanded his covenant forever; holy and reverent is his name. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; a good understanding have all they that do his commandments; his praise endureth forever.—Psalm 111:9, 10.

Road Bridges Made Better by U. of I. Studies

Highway bridges are being designed with more efficient use of materials as a result of investigations being made at the University of Illinois. The university's engineers have published five extensive reports of mathematical analyses and laboratory tests of concrete roadway slabs on bridges.

Many of the more than 3,000 highway bridges built annually are entirely of concrete. Most of the steel bridges have concrete roadway slabs. The results of work at Illinois apply to both types. Approximately $50,000,000 a year is spent in the United States on highway bridges.

"Results reported in the University of Illinois bulletins should lead to more balanced bridge design—to making all parts equally strong," says Prof. F. E. Richart, who is the senior of five university engineers engaged on the project.

"New specifications of the U. S. Public Roads administration refer to results obtained here. Heavier curbs and thinner roadway slabs may follow from these studies," he states.

The bulletins published are important to engineering. Together they total 468 pages. They represent $50,000 worth of testing, which is only the start of investigations into an almost untouched field of engineering research.

Scientists Answer 'Food Pill' Dreams At Univ. of Illinois

Writers of fantastic fiction love to forecast that some day humans will obtain all the energy of a steak dinner simply by swallowing a little pill. One of the reasons why this forecast will not come true soon is shown at the University of Illinois.

Six pounds of Threonine, one of the 22 amino acids essential to life, have been synthesized in the university chemistry laboratory. The cost is $900 a pound. The 2 or 3 grams needed every day in a human's diet would cost about $5.

The other 21 amino acids, of which the protein in human diet is composed, would make the cost of a day's "food pills" something like $100. That is for the protein alone. The diet also contains fats and carbohydrates.

Normally, individuals get all of these things in their regular foods. But the basic food substances, such as Threonine, may prove of value to medicine for sustaining the life and strength of persons temporarily unable to take in or digest ordinary food. This possibility is being investigated.

Threonine is one of the newest-known of the amino acids. It was discovered at the University of Illinois by Prof. William C. Rose. He fed the 21 previously known amino acids to rats. They failed to survive. So he searched for another amino acid in proteins, and finally isolated Threonine. With all 22 acids in the diet, the rats thrived.

Taft 'Dream Museum' Needed at U. of Ill.

In the memorial room of Smith Music hall at the University of Illinois is a model showing the last great—unfinished—dream of the Middle West's own sculptor, the late Lorado Taft. Taft died in 1936. For a quarter century he had planned and urged what he called his "dream museum."

In his studio he collected materials for it, and made a miniature. This miniature, and his studio collection of originals, casts, "peep shows", and sketches was brought after his death to the University of Illinois, where he had been graduated in 1879.

Much of the collection has been stored, because the university has no place to display it. Much of the university's own collection, and many valuable art gifts to it likewise are not on display because of lack of a place for showing them.

Some day, university officials and friends hope, the campus at Urbana-Champaign will be the site of Lorado Taft's "dream museum" come true, with all these materials shown for the pleasure and inspiration of the university's thousands of students and for the many visitors who will come to see them.

Standardization

STANDARDIZATION is a term which one might say has come into its own in the last decade or so, for it has become characteristic of modern times. And yet, in spite of what it signifies in certain industries—the lifting up of manufactured goods, for instance, to a prescribed level, thereby safeguarding the purchaser, and the establishment of minimum wage laws, thereby protecting the wage-earner—standardization, as such, has many opponents.

We find William Lyon Phelps saying, "Standardization is the enemy of progress," and Calvin Coolidge wrote: "Progress depends very largely on the encouragement of variety. . . . The privilege of the individual to develop his own thoughts and shape his own character, that makes progress possible." These men saw the dangers of standardization. For no matter how high a human standard may be, limitation is always present because that standard is below perfection. For example, one might have a highly developed piece of apparatus, but if this were taken as an ultimate standard, progress would not be made beyond it. This would mean the stultifying of initiative, resourcefulness, and the limitation of progress.

How to deal with the problem of standardization—keep that which it may offer of good, yet not to be limited by it—is a question which needs to be faced and answered. . . .

Jesus gave the one perfect standard for all time when he said (Matthew 5:48): "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." No standard is high enough, then, unless it is perfection itself. Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 353): "Perfection underlies reality." This is not hard to grasp when we accept the spiritual record of creation set forth in the first chapter of Genesis: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him. . . . And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good." . . .

Even glimpsing the infinitude of God enables thought to grasp in some degree the limitlessness of the intelligence, the beauty, the good which are man's use and end.

The joy and freedom which come from knowing these spiritual facts are shown in two passages from Mrs. Eddy's writings. One from Science and Health reads (p. 258): "God expresses in man the infinite idea forever developing itself, broadening and rising higher and higher from a boundless basis." The other, from her "Miscellaneous Writings" (pp. 82, 83), is as follows: "Immortal Mind is God, immortal good; in whom the Scripture saith 'we live, and move, and have our being.' This Mind, then, is not subject to growth, change, or diminution, but is the divine intelligence, or Principle, of all real being; holding man forever in the rhythmic round of unfolding bliss, as a living witness to and perpetual idea of inexhaustible good."

Let us realize that our real selfhood is the expression of God, good, we see that there is no limit to the good we may express. And we are in no danger of becoming boastful or vain, for we are conscious that God is the source of all good; that to Him belongs the glory.

We may well ask ourselves about everything in our experience. What is my standard for this? Rejecting everything that is limited, distorted, and imperfect, and accepting only what is perfect, we shall see the real standard. Seeing it, we must work up to it by improving our thoughts until they conform to perfection. A high ideal? Yes, but the patience, the love, and the perseverance one must exercise to attain it bless one along the entire way.

God being the Principle of all right desires, motives, and attainment, perfection is the universal standard. No limitation of good belongs to the real selfhood of anyone. And here we see that it is not a matter of great concern whether our brother is measuring up to some human standard we may have outlined. In this regard, the all-important question is, Are our thoughts of our brother measuring up to the standard of perfection?

One can readily see the freedom which results from accepting as one's own the standard of perfection. In it there is no restriction of good. One's love, one's service, one's consciousness of good cannot be humanly standardized, when it is understood that the resources of good are infinite and inexhaustible. Paul, with the standard of perfection before him, wrote in his letter to the Ephesians (Ephesians 1:3, 4): "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ: according as he hath chosen us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before him in love."

The greatest infantile paralysis epidemic in history hit the United States in 1916, when 30,000 cases were reported, with nearly one-third in New York city. Although this total has never been exceeded, many countries have reported record epidemics in recent years.

Mr. Hansen gave his grand-daughter in marriage and her sister, Frances Gallagher, served her as matron of honor, with Nita Potter and Nora Brennan as bridesmaids. GRASS LAKE

SCHOOL CLOSURES WITH PICNIC AT FOX RIVER PARK

The Grass Lake School has been dismissed and the school children are now enjoying their summer vacation. The entire eighth grade passed their final exams and have been graduated. There were six students this year who graduated and they are: Margaret Gades, Betty Meyer, Jack Radtke, William Collins, Gordon Collins, and Charlotte Gyger.

The students and their mothers enjoyed a picnic last Friday at Fox River park and everyone who went reported a "swell" time.

ED SMITH, JR., GETS 12-LB. CATFISH

Ed Smith, Jr., wasn't to be outdone by his aunt Martha and so he went her catch one pound better last week when he landed a 12-lb. catfish, Martha Smith, you remember, caught an 11-lb. fish of the same species earlier this spring. The entire Smith family gathered at Smith's resort Friday, May 24th, to celebrate Ed, Sr.'s birthday and the catfish served as the "piece de resistance" of the party.

FISH ARE REALLY HITTING GOOD

Everyone who has done any fishing in the past two weeks has had good luck in all the local channels and lakes. Reports have reached us that the catfish are hitting extra good right now in the river. John Reimers is one of the fishermen who has had very good luck hooking these good eating fish.

The pickerel also are beginning to hit. On Saturday, Joe Vidic, of Chicago, caught a 6-lb. pickerel in Grass Lake and Charley Heppner of Glenview, came in with four dandies caught just on Haling's channel.

And with the fishing hitting good, all the resort owners are praying for some warm weather and sunshine to bring the fishermen out to enjoy the sport. So far, the weatherman has given the outdoorsman no cooperation whatsoever!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Farnham F. Dudgeon

Allies Stage Big Counter-Attack In Attempt to Check Nazi Drive; Senate Passes Huge Army Bill

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Because they fear invasion of Great Britain by the advancing German forces, English officials are taking concrete steps to defend their homeland. In the above picture, beyond-war-age veterans of the last World war are shown receiving equipment and arms to be used against parachute troops that might be dropped from the sky. While the younger men are fighting beside the French on the continent these older men are guarding vulnerable spots throughout England.

THE WAR: Revised Edition

On the fields of northern France and Belgium the story of 1914-18 continued to unfold itself in new, grim and bloody chapters. This time the forces of Adolf Hitler were playing the leading German role as they made their bid for Paris, capital of France and for ports on the English channel, gateway to Britain. For a time as these forces battled their way through The Netherlands, across Belgium, into France, it looked that there would be no stopping them until they decided to write the final chapter themselves. Even the dispatches from the allied war camps told of the constant advances made by the invading legions.

Jittery, harassed and worried, the British-French war council switched control of the army to Gen. Maxime Weygand, former commander of the French army in the Near East. Veteran of the World war, General Weygand swung into action with a dramatic plane dash across German lines, a return trip to Paris and the issuance of an order to launch an immediate counter-attack. Directing this new move—the first major attack of the allies—with all the vigor for which he is famous and respected, he was successful in stalling the German machine, for a short time at least.

Two important key points near the channel, Arras and Abbeville, were reportedly retaken from the Nazis. Soon word came through, however, that the Germans were pounding at the gates of Calais—which is only 26 miles across the Strait of Dover from England.

This fight for the channel ports may well be the most decisive battle of the current conflict. For as long as the English and French control the channel they are really "united." Should these ports fall into Nazi hands, however, Hitler would be in an excellent position to launch his threatened air and land attack on Britain—at home.

Evidence that England was worried and preparing for such an at-

HEADLINERS ... in the news

Shadows of Frederick the Great fall from the person of Adolf Hitler in the opinion of his henchman, Field Marshal Goering. In Berlin on a short visit from the fighting front, he compared Hitler to Frederick and pictured him as a master military strategist.

From Boston came word that Senator Bridges (Rep., N. H.) had declared that city to be overrun by Nazi bundsmen and he called upon President Roosevelt to clean up this "fifth column" before proceeding with the national defense program. And another senator, this one from Massachusetts itself—Senator Lodge (Republican)—came a suggestion that the United States regular army be increased to a standing force of 750,000 men. He figures the present goal of 280,000 men will be reached by fall.

Changing horses in the middle of a stream isn't such bad business, according to Wendell L. Willkie, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. He voiced this theory in a political speech in which he assailed the New Deal for what he termed "failure" to defend the United States "against itself" and further charged that it could not be trusted (in a third term) to defend the nation from outside aggression. His speech was made at a Republican rally in Somerville, N. J., on the eve of that state's primary election.

tack was apparent on every hand. Winston Churchill, prime minister, was given a virtual dictator's power over all phases of English life. Every resource of the nation was being mustered to resist the attack that was in the offing. While the government's power to press the war across the channel was being approved, internal defense measures were also being substantially strengthened. Beyond-war-age veterans of the last war were being equipped with arms to aid in battling parachute troops or other invading forces.

In 2 hours and 50 minutes the parliament passed legislation giving the government control to mobilize all cash, property, labor, agriculture and industry. It was a totalitarian measure designed to meet the totalitarian Germany on even ground. The drastic action was necessary, the government said, because the war had reached the stage where every available resource had to be used to wage the fight against the enemy.

U. S. DEFENSE: In the Groove

President Roosevelt's request for immediate action in speeding up activity on the U. S. home defense front is meeting with widespread approval. What is even more important, definite action is taking place.

As the senate passed a record peacetime army supply bill, calling for expenditure of $1,823,000,000, by a 74 to nothing vote, Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, was telling U. S. business men that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's huge credit resources were virtually at their command for any expansion which would aid the defense program.

Full credit backing to American business enlisting in the defense drive came as Jones, head of the RFC, called on the country's banks to give "fullest co-operation" in all loans of this type and his lending agency would underwrite them in the amount of 75 per cent.

From Detroit, center of the nation's automobile industry, came word that spare plant capacity of that industry may be utilized to speed arms production. Army and navy technical experts have visited Detroit and have completed detailed studies on how these plants may be used. It is understood that the war department has in its files mobilization plans for the industry should need arise for a hurried production of fighting tools and equipment.

The 74 to nothing vote which the senate gave to the President in passing the army supply bill indicates the manner in which that body has swung behind the "preparedness" plea. This bill provides for a full peacetime army of 280,000 men, about 10,000 planes, tons of munitions, thousands of guns and a "blank check" in the amount of $132,000,000, for the President to spend as he sees fit in building up the army.

Sour Note

Principal sour note in the general approval (see above) which was greeting the administration's policy of improving national defense, was sounded by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in a speech in which he minimized the air peril to the United States. While he urged an adequate defense program Lindbergh criticized the present administration by saying that our recent policy "leads to neither strength, friendship nor peace."

'Fifth Column'

"Outside the gates of Madrid four columns of our troops are engaged. But within there is a fifth column, which, at the proper time, will arise and overthrow the defenders."

Since the day that the Spanish rebel general Quiroga de Llano, made that now famous remark regarding the "fifth column" the term has been used to refer to all those residents (citizens or aliens) of a nation at war or faced with the possibility of war at some future date, who act or speak in a fashion that may in some way aid the enemy or possible enemy.

Such aid to the "enemy" may come in many different ways. It may mean sabotage or disclosing military secrets. Most striking examples of "fifth column" activity usually come however, as the troops of the enemy are marching into the home country. The "fifth column" is already there and has placed itself in key positions to aid the advancing troops.

Thus far, it is claimed, the German forces have successfully used these tactics in Denmark, Norway, Holland and Belgium. "Fifth columnists" may or may not be citizens of the country in which they reside. They filter into the nation in times of peace as students, tourists, workmen, refugees or any guise which is not apt to be alarming.

AGRICULTURE: No Acreage Cut

Further reduction in the acreage of major U. S. farm crops has been decided against, according to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Secretary Wallace

After discussing the current farm surplus situation with President Roosevelt, the secretary announced that the impact of the European war was making a profound effect upon American agriculture. He said that because of the war future emphasis should be upon increasing domestic consumption and storage of crops against future needs.

Exports of U. S. farm products have been sharply curtailed because of the German invasion of Norway, Denmark, Belgium and The Netherlands, as these markets have been cut off. Then, too, the allies have diverted much of their agricultural buying to their own colonies.

POLITICS:

Home Stretch

Republicans have picked virtually all of their 1,000 delegates to the national convention and yet no candidate has enough publicly instructed votes to assure first-ballot nomination for the presidency race. On the other side of the political fence, with only about three-fourths of the delegates chosen the Democratic party is apparently going to give President Roosevelt another chance—IF—he wants it. With the war situation being what it is inside New Dealers feel certain that the President will choose to run.

Talk of postponing the Republican convention, scheduled for June 24 in Philadelphia, was spiked by at least one G. O. P. leader, Alf M. Landon. He told newsmen in Topeka, before he left to keep a luncheon date with President Roosevelt in Washington, that he was "opposed to any suggestion . . . to postpone . . . the convention" . . . or have the Republican party . . . "lend itself to any intangible coalition which would tend to decrease party responsibility." His latter remark referred to a suggestion emanating from some quarters that the formality of a presidential election be abolished and a "coalition" government be formed to meet any threat of American invasion or any other foreign danger.

Like Mr. Landon, political leaders in both major parties are generally opposed to any such suggestion, the thought being that the ideals of free government can best be served even in times of "crisis" by proceeding along regular democratic channels in governmental business.

MISCELLANY:

4. In California, the Imperial valley suffered a series of fairly severe earth shocks. At least eight persons were killed and supplies of water were cut off in six cities. Estimates of property loss ran to about $3,000,000.

4. Possibility of a shortage of steel supplies in the United States was reported by the magazine Iron Age. Pointing out that the war-generated demand was causing reserve supplies to decline rapidly, it was said the pinch would be felt in midsummer.

4. Times square, New York city, witnessed a clash of several thousand Communists and their sympathizers with police as a "peace demonstration" was attempted. Marching two abreast the demonstration blocked traffic on Broadway and the police were called to maintain order.

4. In Georgia, Gov. E. D. Rivers signed a proclamation ordering all aliens in that state to register with nearest police officials and be fingerprinted. Similar demands were made by various communities scattered throughout the nation.

Concealing Bad Room Proportions
Wall and ceiling tints to conceal bad proportions and accent the feeling of space are now being generally used by home owners. Light colors, those mixed with white, tend to create a feeling of space and should be used as groundwork when this effect is sought. A gray background throughout the house, brightened with light shades of yellow, pale green, coral, or similar tints, will give a sense of space, and normally dark rooms will appear brighter. If the house is too large and appears empty, the action should be reversed. Dark shades, warm glowing colors, should be used to draw together an oversized room.

U. of I. Admits Low Scholars Only on Trial

New Rule Places Students From Lowest Quarter in High Schools on Probation on Entering University.

Starting this fall, high school graduates who rank in the scholastic lowest one-fourth of their class will be admitted to the University of Illinois only on probation.

A study of university records of students who came from the lower quarter of their high school classes shows that 40 per cent have in the past failed at the university and were dropped within one year.

"It is obvious that such students either should not be permitted to enter the university, or if they are admitted it should be under conditions which will improve their chances of success," stated President Arthur C. Willard in announcing the new entrance rule.

"The requirement that these students be on scholastic probation means that unless they do satisfactory work, they will not be permitted to continue beyond the first semester," President Willard said. "While on probation, they will not be eligible for participation in extra-curricular activities."

"The purpose of this change is two-fold," he explained. "First, while it is not definitely an exclusion measure, it will deter high school students with poor scholastic records who have no real interest in doing satisfactory college work from coming to the University of Illinois."

"Second, it will provide those with such records who do enter, with a supervisory and guidance service which will give them a better opportunity to develop into successful students."

"This will include a careful analysis of the student's aptitudes and preparation, counsel and advice on study methods, possible requirements of a lighter than normal schedule, and restrictions on extra-curricular activities so that more time may be devoted to study."

Gymkana Show at U. of I. Is Unique Student Production

Since 1933 a colorful and unusual student activity has been developed at the University of Illinois. It is the "Gymkana," a spectacular show outsparking student circuses, stunt shows, and other traditional college-campus student productions. It combines gymnastics, folk dances, spectacular stunts, and breath-taking costumes.

The very word "Gymkana" is unique to the production. The dictionary lists "gymkhana" an Anglo-Indian word meaning "a meeting for athletic contests, mainly horse racing." The University of Illinois Gymkana has dropped the "h" and the "es."

The "h" was dropped at Illinois not by an Englishman, but by Australian-born Hartley D'Oyley Price, head gymnastic coach. The show started in 1933, when the depression-strained athletic association cut the gymnastic team from its budget. The first Gymkana was planned to raise funds to support the gymnastic team.

The second show also featured the gymnasts alone, but by the third production the activity had expanded to include co-eds, who are gymnasts, tap and toe dancers, who take part in mixed group dances and in specialty acts. The production now includes some 250 students as performers, managers, and workers in various capacities.

Two campus shows are given each year before audiences packing George Huff gymnasium. The first is the weekend of Mothers day, the second the weekend of Interscholastic track and field activities. Ten "road show" performances are given away from the campus.

University Radio Station Airs Unsponsored News

A half-hundred unsponsored news, market, and behind-the-news commentary programs are broadcast each week by the University of Illinois station, WILL (580 kc.). This is only non-commercial, educational station in Illinois.

From five light news programs are presented daily except Sunday when the station is silent. For most of its commentary material, WILL offers experts from the University of Illinois staff.

The Joneses were not only kept up with, but were surpassed by the Smiths, the Johnsons, and the Browns at the University of Illinois this year. A survey of student registration showed 98 Smiths, 91 Johnsons, 49 Browns, and 46 Joneses enrolled.

State's Own University Is U. of Illinois

Ten Colleges, Five Schools Now Comprise Institution Which Opened in 1868.

The University of Illinois, chartered February 28, 1867, by the state general assembly, opened March 2, 1868. Today it has 10 colleges and five schools. Three of the colleges are in Chicago. These are Medicine, Dentistry, and Pharmacy.

The other colleges and the schools are at Urbana-Champaign. The colleges there are Agriculture, Commerce, Education, Engineering, Fine and Applied Arts, Law, and Liberal Arts and Sciences. The schools are Graduate, Journalism, Library, Music, and Physical Education.

During the complete 1939-40 academic year, including 1939 summer session, 17,212 individuals were enrolled in the University of Illinois. The greatest number at any one time was 13,894, enrolled during the first semester. Of these, 12,290 were in the colleges and schools at Urbana-Champaign, 1,220 at Chicago, and 384 in extra-mural courses. These statistics do not include some 1,200 correspondence students.

Each semester approximately 1,850 courses are offered. During 1939 a total of 3,516 degrees were conferred. Of these, 2,562 were the bachelors, or first, degrees, while the rest were various advanced degrees. The university has some 130,000 living alumni and former students, of whom 71,000 are located in Illinois.

Buildings, land, and equipment of the University of Illinois are valued at $31,892,000. This includes 77 major and 58 minor buildings, and 2,318 acres of land. A large part of the land is in agricultural experiment use. Experiment plots are located in various parts of the state as well as at Urbana-Champaign.

Operating costs of the university are about $8,532,000 a year. Of this $5,432,000 is from state tax revenues. The tax revenue provides 63 per cent of the income, student fees 17 per cent, the federal government 11 per cent, gifts and endowments 4 per cent, and miscellaneous sources 4 per cent.

Of this income, 53 per cent is spent for instruction, and 13 per cent for research. Plant operation accounts for 14 per cent, agricultural extension 8 per cent, administration and general expenses 7 per cent, and libraries 5 per cent.

The University of Illinois library is the largest of all state university libraries and the fifth largest of any American university. It contains more than 1,175,000 books, 330,000 pamphlets, and 10,600 pieces of sheet music. More than 30,000 volumes are added each year. The recorded use by students and faculty exceeds 1,000,000 calls a year.

U. of I. Bands Give 50th Annual Concert

The year 1940 is important to the University of Illinois Concert band as the date of its Golden anniversary concert. Previous to 1890 it had been strong in military music only. That year marked the change which has influenced band music and especially school band music throughout the world.

"Fifteen years after that first concert, the band came under the leadership of Director A. A. Harding, today recognized as the 'father of the school band movement.' His motto has been 'always something new.'"

He developed at Illinois the "symphonic band" which is as flexible as a symphony orchestra and as smashing as a military band, and as fine to listen to indoors as outdoors. From the great John Philip Sousa, America's march king, the Illinois band won the tribute, "the world's greatest college band."

Actually, the Illinois musical group is three bands—the Concert, First Regimental, and Second Regimental bands, together totaling 350 musicians. Players are chosen in competitive tryouts.

Illinois Men Active On New Drug 'Bible'

Your druggist has two books which appear as regularly in every American pharmacy as the Bible in a church. The books are the "U. S. Pharmacopoeia" and the "National Formulary." Both are important not only to practicing and manufacturing pharmacists, but to the government for which they are official standards under the national and state pure foods and drugs acts. A new edition of the "Formulary" is now issued in 1940. Key man for the previous edition is Dr. J. B. Gathercoal, University of Illinois College of Pharmacy professor. E. N. ... is a member of the committee which regularly revises the "U. S. Pharmacopoeia."

Persons responsible for the selection of contents of the "Formulary" are two others checking an alphabetical list with the new "Formulary" and Dr. Berens, University of Illinois College of Pharmacy professor. HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK

GREATEST MENACE TO U. S. SWINE

Throughout the ages Bubonic or Black Plague has been the most dreaded of all human ailments, and at one time in history it was said to have killed off a quarter of the population of Europe.

Hog cholera might well be called the "Bubonic Plague" of the swine industry for this subtle and fatal contagion still causes an annual loss on American farms of from 20 to 30 millions of dollars.

hog cholera outbreak was in 1928 when 60 head of each thousand swine fell victims to the disease. Only prompt action by farmers and veterinarians blocked the disease at that time. Thanks to modern vaccination by local veterinarians, losses over the past ten years have averaged not to exceed 35 head per each thousand swine.

Even so this represents a terrific and really needless loss. Sanitation and drugs are of little value in avoiding hog cholera. Even the amount of virus that can be carried on the feet of a single fly has been known to transmit the disease.

Progress of hog cholera losses by years. Left-hand column shows number of hogs lost per thousand of hog population. Dotted line, estimated.

Back in 1895 a terrific outbreak of hog cholera swept over the United States and killed one in ten of the total hog population. Then again in 1913, a short time after government scientists discovered the cause of the disease and perfected a preventive serum, another disastrous outbreak hit and killed 105 head of each thousand swine in the nation. The last great

The only sure, safe and economical prevention is to have all pigs immunized by a veterinarian at weaning time and to be sure that all adult hogs on the farm have been vaccinated.

If every farmer had his herd immunized every year, it is believed that the mortality rate caused by cholera could be cut from 35 per thousand to as little as 5 head per thousand.

Milk Strike Excitement Dies Away With Truce

Excitement over the "milk war" that ensued when Chicago drivers went on strike, in protest over a proposed wage cut, died down suddenly this week when a truce was declared between the drivers' unions and dairies supplying the Chicago markets.

Striking drivers went back to work Monday on their previous wages of $48 and commissions. Negotiations for a new contract to replace the one which expired April 30 are now being made. Should both parties fail to agree by June 10, disputed points are to be passed upon by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney. In the event their decisions are not accepted, an arbitration board consisting of two dealers and two union representatives is to be set up.

Open Installation Climaxes Annual Convention Attended by 200

Elinor Bock of Highland Park was elected president for 1941 at the twenty-eighth annual convention of District No. 3, held here Friday with 200 delegates and guests attending. She succeeds Mrs. Carolyn Horan of Antioch, who was district president during the past year.

Other new district officers are Florence Parkhurst, Palatine, vice-president; Gladys Bristol, Crystal Lake, warden; Mildred Lyle, Highland Park, secretary; Freda Thompson, Wilmette, treasurer.

Highland Park was chosen for next year's meeting place.

In the afternoon 121 delegates and visiting lodge members were present, and in the evening 140. At the evening session, when open installation was held, the attendance was greatly increased by visitors.

At the business sessions, the nine lodges of the district were represented by the following total delegations:

Autumn Leaf of Barrington, 11; Just in of Crystal Lake, 15; Libertyville, 11; Palatine, 4; Sheridan of Highland Park, 20; Vesper of Evanston, 12; Waukegan, 23; Wilmette, 15; Lakeside of Antioch, 24.

Visitors were present from Kenosha Rebekah lodges: from Maywood No. 376 and Chicago Nos. 304 and 460 of Ill. District No. 6; Minnehah No. 77 of Aurora; West Chicago No. 298. New Hampshire and Ohio were each also represented by a visiting lodge member.

Honor Antioch Woman

Mrs. Ida Osmond of Antioch, mother of the retiring district president and herself the "oldest living district president," was a guest of honor at the convention. Mrs. Osmond was the third president elected for District No. 3, serving part of an unexpired term for 1913-14 and for the term of 1914-15. Her two predecessors in office, Mrs. Clara Turner of Antioch and Mrs. Marthe Protine of Libertyville, are both dead.

The announcement was made during the business session that District No. 3 has contributed $434.53 to the Illinois State Rebekah assembly fund for the upkeep of Odd Fellows' homes for the aged and orphaned.

Assembly President Sophie Petersen of Chicago, who was present at the gathering here, had set $4,000 as a goal for this fund. A total of $4,100.61 has been raised so far.

Waukegan lodge headed the contributions to the District No. 3 fund with a gift of $40, and Barrington was second with $20. The other lodges' donations were: Crystal Lake, $7; Libertyville, $10; Palatine, $10; Highland Park, $10; Evanston, $10; Wilmette, $11; Antioch, $10; Alma Club, $10; Three Ling box (taken to lodges of district), $5.63.

The Antioch lodge presented its ten silver dollars on a placard of the "moon and seven stars," chosen by State President Petersen as the emblem for this year. One dollar was placed in each star and three in the moon.

The "moon and stars" theme was also carried out in the decorations of the Odd Fellows' hall, where the convention was held. A blue "heavens" scene in which a silvery moon and seven stars served as the background for an arch of roses in which Mrs. Petersen and the state warden, Mary Eller, sat.

Prizes Awarded

Waukegan lodge was awarded a prize of $5 for the most points earned during the year for membership and for mileage in visiting other lodges.

Mrs. Myrtle Horton, noble grand of the Antioch lodge, and Mary O'Hara, secretary of Waukegan, won the meritorious award—a medalion regalia—for securing five new members each for their lodges.

A song written for the day by Mrs. Rebekah Burnette, a charter member and a past noble grand of the Antioch lodge, was sung by Genevieve Wood of Evanston.

A dinner at which covers were placed for 120 was served at 6 o'clock in the Guild hall of St. Ignace's church by women of the parish.

Past Master Attends

Past Grand Master Gordon of the Odd Fellows was among the many distinguished visitors at the open installation of new district leaders, held in the Odd Fellows' hall in the evening.

Special entertainment included the solos, "Havana" and "Love Comes Stealing," by Mrs. Earl J. Hays; saxophone numbers, "Twelfth Street Rag," "The Wind and the Rain in Your Hair," "Dark Town Strutters' Ball," by Dale Smith; solos, "Woodpecker Song" and "God Bless America," Florence Peterson; accordion selection, "Sharpshooters' March," Theodore Hennings; reading, "Three Kinds of Mothers," Mrs. Marguerite K. Phillips; solos, "When the Heart Gets Free" and "The Second Minute," Betty Davis, accompanied by her mother.

He complimented the local school for its interest in the physical welfare of its students and congratulated the young men who received letters. His address was delivered quite informally, was well received and made a profound impression upon his hearers.

Also heard in brief talks were President Arthur Maplethorpe of the local high school board; Jim McMillen, board member; and Principal J. O. Austin. Coach R. H. Childers handled the duties of roastermaster in his usual inimitable manner. The excellent dinner was served by the home economics department.

high maintenance cost that are available in a home of the 1940 model. "The house will have achieved its purpose," he said here today, "if during its construction enough Antioch residents inspect it and find out how radically different the well-designed and well-built home of today is from the home of 1920 or 1910."

"During the past ten or fifteen years," Mr. Vos said, "the progress made in building materials, home design and in methods of buying and financing a home is comparable to any advances made during the same period by the automobile, radio or any other American industry. The home of today actually provides up to 40 per cent more house for the money than ever before."

As an example of these advances, Mr. Vos cited the Triple Insulation principles to be followed in the construction of the Guildway home here, which will make it fire-safe, with a fire-proof exterior, fire-safe interior partitions and fire-proof rock wool insulation in the hollow side walls and second-floor ceiling. In addition, the principles of triple insulation developed by Johns-Manville engineers, will give the home better protection against weather, according to Mr. Vos, saving fuel bills in winter and making the home more comfortable in winter and summer. Finally, Mr. Vos stated, this building method will guard the house from high upkeep expense, giving it an exterior that does not need paint to preserve it and an interior freer from falling or cracking plaster than ever before possible.

The Guildway house, a six-room home with two baths and garage is one of more than 20 homes designed by famous architects for the National Housing Guild of which the Antioch Guild here is a member. Incorporating the latest features of design and planning, these homes are adapted to local conditions by Guild architects, who have supplemented the designs by others from their own drafting boards.

The home will be used to demonstrate the Guildway method by which the public can build and own a home almost as easily as buying a car. This method, developed by Johns-Manville building experts for the National Housing Guild offers the prospective owner for almost the first time in U. S. building history an opportunity to go to one local headquarters and get complete information and help on every phase of the job. It has attracted national attention and wide endorsement among business and building leaders, according to Mr. Vos.

Their "barbecue" dining room at Nielsen's Corners, highway 59 and Grass Lake road, is a popular rendezvous for lovers of good food... as well as for famished fishermen and vacationists.

"Zombiel" a new cocktail sensation from the tropics, is being featured at Herman's resort on Bluff lake, Proprietor Ed Knickelbein announces. Genuine southern fried shrimp, and the unique Herman's fish fries are designed to bring further gustatory joy to patrons.

Saturday night dances are proving popular at the Pasadena Gardens on Highway 83. On Friday evenings Proprietor Milton Raditz sponsors old-fashioned "barn dances."

Jennie Dominick, popular young singer from Racine, will be featured with the orchestra at Dominick's State Line Inn on Highway 83 Wednesday and Saturday evenings of this week. Real Italian spaghetti is featured on the menu at the Inn in addition to steaks and other specialties. Proprietor Dominick also prides himself on his stock of fine California wines.

Continued cool weather is proving disheartening to Dick Moran of the Fairway Grill on Highway 83. The reason is, that his newly-seeded croquet plot isn't making the progress it should. However, Dick stands ready to serve his patrons with food and drink... and the croquet grounds will be ready for use a little later on.

Members of the Lake Villa Lions club enjoyed a dinner and meeting at Anderson's tavern, Route 59 at Petite Lake, Monday evening. Table decorations were carried out in purple, lavender, rose and gold, with centerpieces of spring flowers. "Charley" Anderson, proprietor, is at present busy enlarging and building up the parking space to the south of his place, which includes a grocery store, filling station and free picnic grounds in addition to the tavern.

Every convenience for the fisherman is offered by Kempf's resort, in Beachwood subdivision at Petite lake, with boats, supplies, cottages... and delicious chicken and duck dinners available.

Mrs. Frank Kindl, who was head cook at the Bohemian village at the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago, is in charge of the dinners at Cermak's tavern, Loon Lake, which is specializing in Bohemian cooking this year. The tavern was recently remodeled and enlarged, and the members of the Cermak family are inviting their many friends to stop in and inspect the changes that have been made.

Roast turkey every Saturday night and "Fish and chips" on Friday nights are being featured at Bud's tavern, 898 Main street, Antioch.

Good mixed drinks are the pride of Bernie's tavern, located in Antioch at 899 Main street.

Al's popular "Clown band," which has made a decided hit with patrons of the Roundup on Highway 21 (one-half mile south of Antioch) on past occasions, has been secured for the "Spring dance" to be held there Saturday evening. Dancing will start at 9 o'clock and a midnight luncheon will be served.

In line with the policy that has made resorts and inns around Antioch famous for their good cooking, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ireland are featuring home-cooked meals every day in the week at Ireland's Lone Oak Inn on Highway 59. Fish fries are held on Fridays.

The fried lake perch and home fried chicken that drew many visitors back for return stops at Haling's resort on Grass Lake are being repeated this year by popular request. Haling's is a favorite rendezvous for fishermen, who report many good catches in the channels there this year.

National Guard's Swastika

The emblem of the Arizona national guard will be a swastika, instead of a swastika. Despite the fact that the swastika was the emblem of the guards for years before the Nazis adopted it, the fight against its use finally resulted in the action.

"Barn Dance" Given for Convention Fund Is Attended by 300

About 300 attended the "old-fashioned barn dance" held by the Antioch volunteer fire department last Thursday evening for the benefit of the fund for entertaining the Lake County Firemen's convention here June 24. The dance was held in the new warehouse of the Antioch Milling company north of the Soo Line depot, through the courtesy of the company. The "Aristocrats of Rhythm" orchestra played for dancing from 8:30 p. m. to 1:30 a. m.

A grant of $100 to the Antioch department for convention expenses was made by the Lake County Firemen's association at its annual election meeting, Monday evening at Long Grove. Charles Buerger of Fox Lake was elected as the new president of the organization; William Burgess of Lake Forest is vice-president; Norman Conrad, Waukegan, secretary (re-elected); Fred Hamlin, Lake Villa, treasurer, (re-elected), and William Walk, Fox Lake, sergeant-at-arms.

W. E. Whalen, Elgin, Ill., fire chief, gave a talk on "Fire Prevention and the Development of Fire-Fighting Methods."

The Observer

Quite a few Antioch necks did some turning one day last week when Cliff Thompson, 8 ft. 7 inch salesman for the Blatz Brewing company, paid a few business calls along Main street. Thompson, who is a native of Scandinavia, Wis., and is 34 years of age, spent several years with the Al G. Barnes and Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty circuses.

Milestones on the path to progress: Waukegan, May 25—After sticking handbills for a Waukegan car agency under the windshield wipers of autos in the Faunstein parking lot, George Clark, 23, of 111 Sumac ave., Waukegan and two colored boys yesterday were ordered by North Chicago police to remove them and to refrain from the practice.

Waukegan, May 25—The Waukegan city council will be asked to advertise for bids to construct a comfort station at Dugdale Field when it assembles Monday night.

The recommendation was made last night at a meeting of Alderman Joseph Bidingier's recreation committee, which reviewed plans of the proposed structure.

It was proposed to locate the building off Dugdale road near the backstop of the baseball diamond. It will house restrooms for men and women, a dressing room and a tool room. "We hope to have it ready by the first of July," Bidingier said.
